ABOUT ME:

Blue-collar hockey is my specialty. A toughness developed from being around the Wu-Tang Clan since a young teen, I have mastered the fine arts of keeping pucks out of the net, stopping odd-man rushes, winning fights, and being an effective rat. That is, a will to never give up as well as a bull-like ability to skate through people using my shear strength and lower center of gravity.

SCOTT
ISBELL

Where eyes may be the window to a person's soul, the piercing blue eyes of the young Scott Isbell are the window to a new kind of Soul that pushes the boundaries of modern Pop music to heights of past legends. With 1.1 million Instagram followers and a genuine Peter Pan-like persona, Scott Isbell is a proven and passionate performer. Isbell crosses seamlessly from studio to stage to screen, evoking the presence of the Kings of Pop and Soul. Isbell is also a music producer as well as songwriter and recording engineer. As an actor, Scott Isbell co-starred on the two-time Emmy winning children's series Aqua Kids.

In fact, Isbell has performed in over 7,000 official BBC shows for the live theatrical adaptation of Bluey as various characters including starring as Bluey, herself. From arenas and stadiums, to immersive experiences, Isbell continues to bring Bluey to the stage for real life. In semi-professional ice hockey, Isbell's natural ability to entertain a crowd is felt on the ice and is described as a "momentum shifter". That is, Scott Isbell builds moments that audiences never forget. That is, whether on the stage, the ice or in front of a camera, Scott Isbell's presence and energy is felt in every single project. No matter the median or avenue, the mission is simple: entertain and be unforgettable.

In other words, Scott Isbell is a Renaissance Man, a multifaceted artist able to take any character or brand and bring it to new dimensions of cherished familiarity. At the age of 4, Isbell became enamored with the rhythm and soul portrayed by an Elvis impersonator named Rick Huntress. Inspired by the performance, he began to emulate his new-found hero, Elvis Presley through his songs. Isbell then began performing on stage as a mini Elvis impersonator with Huntress, and once again, won over the crowd with his innocent and dynamic presence. As he grew, he discovered another King of Pop, Michael Jackson, who fueled Isbell's curiosity to performing arts, setting his sights high on music. At 12, Scott competed in USA's Most Talented Kids. Influenced by his heroes and other legends such as Neil Diamond, Isbell was seen as a natural on stage where his signature old Soul of new Pop style began to take shape.

On top of this, Isbell has been a lifelong Walt Disney fanatic and has envisioned having a friendship with Walt since he was a toddler. Much of the way Isbell thinks, creates, and imagines is thanks to Mr. Walt Disney's influence. From the original Mickey Mouse cartoons, to Toy Story, Cinderella, Peter Pan, A Goofy Movie, and Lion King (just to name a few), Isbell has been enamored by the work of the Walt Disney Company since literal birth. To this day, Scott's favorite place in the world is Walt Disney World and he maintains a massive vintage Disney toy collection. That is, everything from a 1930's Mickey doll, to one of the world's most complete Disney World on Ice souvenir collections in existence, and more. Scott Isbell performs and creates for the world, hoping to capture the same kind of smiles that Walt Disney sought out.

A book about my life with ADHD.

Yes I can be annoying, but this is true.

AMC prof publishes book on ADHD

Dennis Vanasse, director of the Student Success Center at Anna Maria College and an adjunct professor, has recently published his third book, "ADHD, Can't Sit Still." Mr. Vanasse explains his reason for writing: "As an adjunct professor of 22 years, I always wanted to get my message out to young children. My goal is for children to embrace the unique qualities of each other." This book is based on the life of pop star Scott Isbell and his experiences with ADHD.

The teacher asks a question, students know what it's about.
 They never get a chance because I blurt the answer out.
 Never wanted a disorder, yes it happened to me.
 My name is Scott and I have ADHD.

Without an agent or managers and pushed by his desire to perform, Isbell also landed professional acting roles in both TV and film. His acting credits include numerous roles starring in the live theatrical adaptation of Bluey such as Bluey, Bingo, and Bluey's play mate in blue overalls. Isbell's passion for mascotting has led him to playing the role of Bluey for live official BBC/Ludo theatrical events across the country at arenas and stadiums. professional sports events including the ECHL, AHL, MLB, and more. On top of this, Isbell has been in various theater productions, TV commercials and the Emmy Award Winning kids series Aqua Kids – "a great show to be a part of – focused on saving our planet, says Scott. The Aqua Kids would swim with sharks, train with beluga whales, explore aquariums behind-the-scenes, and more. Isbell's continued passions for wild life has led to Scott currently in the process of filming an adventure pilot show called Krazy Adventures. Isbell can also be seen on Natasha Rogoff's (Sesame Street International producer) project Kickin Kitchen, a comedy kid's TV show about life in middle school and eating healthy. Isbell played a school wrestler and student in the school named Jeffrey.

Performing in immersive theatrical experiences has allowed Isbell to develop his acting and improv skills to new levels of sophistication and spontaneity. Scott Isbell is a Bluey live mogul, having performed in over 7,000 shows of the live theatrical show Bluey x Camp. That is, the official live theatrical adaptation of hit show Bluey. From playing the lead as Bluey's playmate in blue overalls, to the roles of Bluey and Bingo, and as every character in the show as a swing, Scott Isbell's versatility as an actor is seen on full display for Bluey x Camp and BBC's Bluey live productions across arenas and sports stadiums. That is, bringing the world's most beloved dog family to life.

His passion for music helped him focus on developing his vocal intensity, fueling his soulful sound. During Isbell's vocal performance on the Emmy award-winning Community Auditions, Sib Hashian, the original drummer of Boston, applauded, exclaiming: "Dynamite – You've got your own style and that's what you've got going for you. You've got a great range... You have a bright future ahead of you." That bright future included being chosen as one of fourteen talents nationally to perform in Hard Rock Café's Under 18 Showcase in Boston. Scott Isbell's commanding presence on stage has propelled him toward the forefront of the Pop music world, opening for Lord Jamar of Brand Nubian and becoming the first teen pop artist to sign with Wu-Tang Management.

BLUEY

Scott Isbell is a dynamic pop artist known for blending high-energy performances with a strong crossover appeal that connects pop, hip-hop, and southern rock audiences. Throughout his career, he has shared stages and opened for legendary acts including Wu-Tang Clan, Busta Rhymes, Def Squad, Raekwon, Cappadonna, Ghostface Killah, Inspectah Deck, Masta Killa, and the legendary rock band Boston (and more). His ability to perform alongside iconic artists from multiple genres highlights both his versatility and commanding stage presence.

Isbell has performed at venues across the United States, including The MGM Grand, Hard Rock Cafés, Disney World, Foxwoods Resort and Casino, and show winner of The American Idol Experience at Hollywood Studios in Florida in 2013. An avid fan of professional wrestling, Isbell has also performed at wrestling events alongside WWE superstars.

However, singing became Isbell's way to creatively channel the frustrations of living with ADHD. A children's book entitled "Can't Sit Still" was written about Scott's life growing up with ADHD. The book became a top trending book in children's books on Amazon. Scott's non-profit efforts include giving away "I Have Tourette Syndrome Please Be Patient" bracelets for any individual struggling with Tourette syndrome. Scott Isbell, himself, has dealt with Tourette's syndrome his entire life and hopes to inspire others how to live and thrive with Tourette's and ADHD.

During the summer of 2014 and 2015, Isbell toured and opened for Wu-Tang Clan legend, Cappadonna, and other artists including Spliff Star (Busta Rhymes), Ne-Yo, Inspectah Deck, Bricksquad, Young Dirty Bastard, and more. In fact, Isbell has been seen on stages with the Wu-Tang Clan since he was a teenager. With Jimmy Kang, the Vice President of Wu-Tang Management managing him, Scott Isbell's presence has been felt on countless stages across America from music festivals, to opening for major Hip Hop artists, and more.

In 2015, Isbell performed at SXSW in Austin, Texas, sharing the stage with the likes of Raekwon, Cappadonna, Ghostface Killah, and Popa Wu. As momentum built, publications including USA Today, Spin Magazine, Boston Globe, NBC, Vice News, Vice TV, and more wrote about Isbell's journey. In 2016, Scott Isbell was selected by Forbes as a "30 Under 30 Scholar" at the Boston Forbes 30 Under 30 Summit where he was chosen amongst thousands of students to represent Emerson College and Wu-Tang Management. Isbell's unique voice attracted the attention of Joe Jackson, the brains behind the Jackson 5. Amazed at how Isbell could bring to life Michael Jackson's spirit in his own, soulful way, Joe Jackson called Isbell "The Prince of Funk".

Isbell skips school to perform at SXSW

Less than 12 hours before he was scheduled to hop a flight to perform at SXSW, pop singer Scott Isbell (above) was nervous — but not about the show. “I’m actually more nervous about catching my flight. I’m obsessed,” Isbell said Wednesday night, adding that he planned to get up before 4 a.m. to get to the airport. This will be the first festival performance for Isbell, who’s from Acton and is studying marketing and communications at Emerson College. He’s represented by Jimmy Kang, vice president of Wu-Tang Management, who signed him after catching his performance at a club in Worcester. Isbell says he’ll debut two new songs during his Saturday night set at the Nook Amphitheater in Austin, Texas. In the days before the show, he also hopes to find time to mingle with industry professionals, including Matt Graham, who works with Scooter Braun, best known for representing Justin Bieber. The trip will require skipping classes, but Isbell says his Emerson professors have been understanding. After all, it’s a performing arts school. “I don’t think they’d say the same thing if this was a hockey tournament.”

Influence wise, Isbell's list is many. On the music end, Scott Isbell's include: Elvis Presley, Michael Jackson, Neil Diamond, Gregg Allman, Warren Haynes, Gov't Mule, Allman Brothers, Susan Tedeschi, Bon Jovi, Kid Rock, Frankie Valli, Janis Joplin, James Brown, Brian McKnight, Mike Posner, Guy Sebastian, Thriving Ivory, and AZ. Some of Isbell's greatest acting influences include: Arnold Schwarzenegger, Dwayne Johnson (The Rock), and Drew Barrymore. Comedically, Isbell credits his style mainly from his lifetime idolization of Don Rickles and Chris Farley. Other highly influential comedians to Isbell include: Sinbad, Adam Sandler, Will Ferrell, Melissa McCarthy, Louie Anderson, Dave Chappelle, Jerry Seinfeld, Jack Black, Ben Stiller, Billy Bob Thornton, and Ralphie May.

Every opportunity to perform Scott Isbell brings to life. One of Isbell's most cherished characters to portray is an elf from the North Pole. Working alongside Santa Claus, himself, Scott takes on the role of an elf and has been seen on CBS news, NBC, and more helping spread Christmas cheer. Scott's holiday spirit has been seen working as a scare actor for Witch's Woods Haunted Hayride and Screampark. That is, entertaining Halloween fans every night as a butcher in the hayride.

Scott Isbell in October of 2023 signed his first PTO (Professional Try Out) contract with the Danbury Hat Tricks of the FPHL (Federal Prospects Hockey League), a single A minor professional league four levels below the NHL (National Hockey League). On October 23, 2023, Isbell made the official line up and suited up against the Carolina Thunderbirds in front of a rowdy Danbury crowd. Scott Isbell, seen in his own bodybuilding TV special on Vice TV and Vice Sports, has since played in semi-professional hockey leagues including the APHL (American Premier Hockey League) and PPSHL (now the Colonial Hockey League) with the Norfolk Mallards where he has become a fan favorite especially amongst the younger fans for his "curved tinted visor" and gritty, blue-collar, and rat-like style of play. It is like watching Peter Pan on ice stirring up fun and chaotic chaos against Captain Hook and the pirates. Many fans have described Isbell's style of play similar to watching a Power Ranger on ice. In between periods, Isbell loves handing out Scott Isbell hockey cards to the kids where his Pan-like persona is on full display. Isbell's greatest aspiration in the sport is to be acting in ice hockey movies and TV shows.

Ice Hockey has been an integral part of my life since I was 3 years old. I knew how to skate before I could even write my own name.

Over the years, the sport has allowed me to lead through kindness and being a trustworthy role model for the team.

Hockey and performing has helped me manage my ADHD and Tourette's Syndrome.

Making others laugh & smile has always been an even bigger part of my life.

VOICEOVER & RADIO SCOTT ISBELL

Reverend Al Sharpton Retweeted

Scott Isbell @scottisbell_ · 7h

Special thanks to @TheRevAl for putting me on air today on his radio show! Rev's commitment to educating the world is honorable.

Versatility

In June of 2026, Scott Isbell took on the role of Team Scotland's Fifa mascot Roary the Lion for official World Cup Boston events including at the Scotland House. Hypeing up thousands of fans as Roary the Lion, the Scot's legendary John McGinn went on to score the game-winning goal in their World Cup match against Haiti on June 13, 2026 in Boston Stadium (formally Gillette Stadium).

No matter the stage, Isbell creates moments for audiences of all ages. Scott Isbell is a true gentleman. That is, with a playful, peaceful, and calming presence to others, Scott's sincerity and blue eyes continue to win over the hearts of crowds from all walks of life. Isbell has vowed in life to be unapologetically himself and encourages others to do the same. Isbell's range as a performer—moving from the gritty intensity of ice hockey, to the high-energy, whimsical world of children's theater, to soulful vocals reminiscent of classic Motown days. Isbell also recorded voiceovers and produced music for the Beetlejuice video game "Bad as Can", which was featured on the Howard Stern Show. Recently, Scott Isbell has performed as Cheer the Care Bear (Lead), bringing the beloved children's series to life in a theatrical setting including WNBA games and the Mohegan Sun Arena. Isbell can also be seen on stage and meet-and-greets performing as Daniel Tiger from the PBS Fred Rogers Productions hit TV show Daniel Tiger's Neighborhood. It's a testament to his versatility (and his cardio, as the Bluey live shows are famously demanding physical performances).

SCOTTY DOGGY

Scotty Doggy, a mascot, is the result of a Scott Isbell dream where he dreamt about a singing, rapping, hockey-playing doggy with blue eyes and ADHD performing exercise routines and songs for kids to join along with on their TV screens and tablets.

Written by Scott Isbell (and Scotty Doggy)

It's nice to be a doggy
I don't like manicotti
I'm not a fan of biscottis
I like to play hockey

You know Kevin McCalister

It's nice to be a doggy
I love to go on walkies
My name's Scotty Doggy
